SNAKE RIVER'S GOLD

Irrigation Enterprise of Interest to Miners.

PLACER DIGGINGS WILL PAY

Cost of Raising Water Almost Prohibitive In the Past.

While the big canal of the Twin Falls Land & Water company in Southern Idaho is primarily designed to reclaim ngricultural and fruit lands it is likely to slay a certain part in developing the inmeral resources of the State by enabling the prospectors along the Snake river to develop the placer ground on the margin of the stream.

Paul S. A. Bickel, chief engineer the Twin Falls company, who registered at the Kenyon yesterday from Milner, Ida., says that very fine gold is found in many places close to the sometimes more. The ground has never been worked on a large scale owing to the difficulty of raising water. One old miner, Mr. Bickel says, dug the top layer of a bar, wheeled it in a wheelbarrow to a chute, dumped it down to the water's edge and pumped the water with which to wash it, but still he made

The values are not evenly distributed. Some spots will be quite productive. Some spots will be quite productive, while the intervening space shows no gold at all. The best returns are said to be secured from the surface of the bars where the flour-like gold is evi-dently deposited by the current. The colors" are so light and fine that many f them will float on the surface of the water. When seen under the micro scope they resemble they cups. Mr. Bickel's theory is that they have been taken up by the water walle in the process of formation and before they vere deposited in a lode or ledge. He believes that they were distilled in some huge volcanic crucible and the process of crystallization interrupted before the atoms grew into their common form. No one has yet succeeded in tracing the placer gold to a vein in place, but it is observed that the river year by year replaces the precious metals or the bars from which the previous deposits have been carried away by the

With the Twin Falls canal to draw from the gold-hunters will be able wash their gravel over amalgam-coated riffles at small expense and ground which now pays wages or less, may be made to afford a comfortable income.

Mr. Bickel says that the cold weather is beginning to interfere with the earthwork on the canal, which has been completed for twenty-five miles, but the ockwork will be presecuted throughout the winter. Snake river can now tapped for water enough to cover 30,000 acres of which 8000 acres have already been taken up by prospective settlers. The canal is designed to carry cubic feet of water per second gives but a vague idea of the magnitude of the project. A better conception can be formed when one reflects that the a Salt Lake street and that the water will come to the height of the second-story windows in a business block. #### Lead Bonanza at Stateline.

Lead Bonanza at Stateline.

Long years ago the old Mormon settlers found a big hill of lead where they were wont to go to get their bullets for the purpose of killing game, indians, etc., says the Stateline Oracle. Later on this crude way of making their own bullets was abolished and the lead hill was forgotten by a majority of them. But a few of the old-timers from Beaver, believing that such an immense body of lead would some day prove to be valuable, proceeded to take advantage of the mining laws of the State and located the property. Instead of doing their assessment work from year to year, however, they would relocate whenever it became necessary and a man who might develop the property could not gain a foothold. After several years of watching and waiting C. E. Peak has at last secured all rights to the group of four claims and thinks,

President Woodward of the company wil join the party here today, where leave at once for the property.

Wedge Extension Moves Forward.

As another evidence of the activity and zeal that are bringing the Gold mountain country into prominence mountain among the mining talent of the State, the Wedge Extension management has now virtually completed arrangements for a spring campaign of development work that, once inaugurated, will have behind it an abundance of capital. In this district, to the development of which Dr. P. A. H. Franklin has contributed so much, new talent is rapidly being interested, and present indica-tions are that this year will witness a trebling of the number of actively operated properties.

Values From Sunrise.

The Sunrise of Park Valley gained some samples of ore which were down to President Simon several days ago, the assayer's figures being disclosed. Values of the rock, which was taken from the drift on the vein in the main tunnel, were given as $41 gold and $1 silver. The particular section from which this ore is taken is not yet thoroughly demonstrated, but the showing was by the talent considered sufficiently good to put the stock on the list of active street

Heretofore the First National bank has appeared us the fiscal agent of the Rock Island since it came under the domination of the Reid-Moore-Leeds syndicate. No explanation is made for the fact that in undertaking new financial ventures the Rock Island's finance committee has turned to bankers hitherto unconnected with the financing of the Rock Island syn dicate's undertaking.

It has been efficially stated that no im-mediate sale of bonds is contemplated, Obligations are numerous, however, which Obligations are numerous, however, which must be adjusted within the next few years. In addition to the refunding of several outstanding issues which will aggregate in the neighborhood of $100,000,000, there are advancements to subsidiary companies and improvements made from earnings aggregating $57,000,000, which it is deemed advisable to fund at the first favorable opportunity.

It was stated yesterday with some authority that the next authorized issue of thority that the next authorized issue of Rock Island bonds will be for about $160,-Rock Island bonds will be for about 189,600,000, to bear interest at the rate of 4
